India's Israel envy

World View

By N. S. Ramesh

When the Indian government announced its decision to purchase 120 F-21 fighters from Israel, it was met with a wave of criticism. The critics argued that the purchase was a waste of money and that the Indian Air Force did not need such advanced fighters. They also pointed out that the Indian government had spent a large amount of money on the purchase of Russian Sukhoi fighters, which were of inferior quality and performance.

However, if we look at the matter from a different perspective, we can see that the purchase of F-21 fighters is a sign of India's growing military power and its desire to modernize its air force. The F-21 is a highly advanced fighter jet with a number of features that make it a valuable asset to any air force. It has a high speed, a high altitude ceiling, and a high maneuverability. It also has a powerful radar system and a variety of weapons.

Unfolding Pinoy soul in indie filmmaking

By Mark A. Mindad
myk@i.com

WITHIN THE PAST decade, the Philippine indie film scene has emerged as a vibrant and diverse landscape. It is a space where filmmakers are no longer constrained by the commercial imperatives of mainstream cinema, but instead, are free to explore the complexities of the Pinoy soul.

From the gritty realism of the early 2000s to the more experimental and genre-bending works of today, indie filmmakers have pushed the boundaries of what is possible in Philippine cinema. They have tackled issues that were once considered taboo, and they have given voice to the marginalized.

One of the key factors in the growth of the indie film scene is the rise of digital technology. This has lowered the barrier to entry, allowing aspiring filmmakers to create and distribute their work on a much smaller scale than before.

However, the indie film scene is not without its challenges. It often operates in a niche market, and its financial sustainability can be precarious. Despite these obstacles, the passion and creativity of the filmmakers continue to drive the scene forward.

As the Philippine indie film scene continues to evolve, it is clear that it will play an increasingly important role in the country's cultural landscape. It is a space where the Pinoy soul is being explored and celebrated in new and exciting ways.

Hollywood's

The indie film scene in the Philippines has been a source of inspiration for many filmmakers. It has shown that it is possible to create meaningful and impactful films on a small budget.

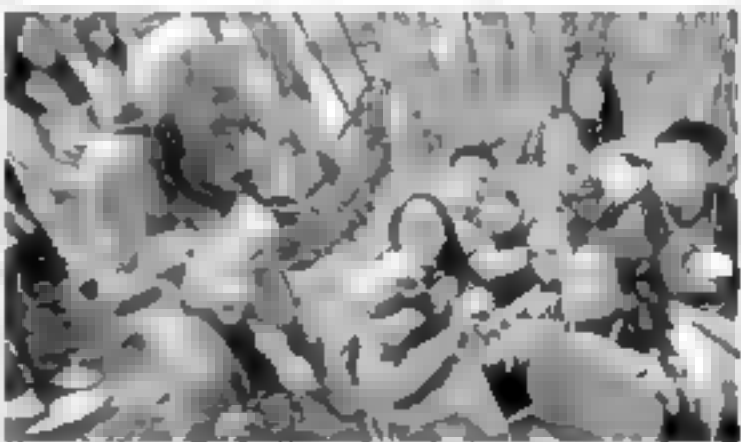

One of the most significant challenges facing the indie film scene is the lack of distribution channels. Many indie films struggle to find a market, which can make it difficult for filmmakers to recoup their costs.

Despite these challenges, the indie film scene remains a vital part of the Philippine film industry. It is a space where filmmakers are able to express their creativity and tell their own stories.

As the industry continues to grow, it is hoped that more support will be provided to the indie film scene, allowing it to thrive and continue to contribute to the richness of Philippine cinema.

Benguet university faces challenges of climate change

By

The Benguet University is facing significant challenges as it adapts to the realities of climate change. The university's campus, which is located in a mountainous region, is particularly vulnerable to the effects of global warming.

One of the most pressing issues is the increasing frequency of extreme weather events. Heavy rains and landslides have become a regular occurrence, posing a serious threat to the safety of the campus and the surrounding communities.

In addition to the physical challenges, the university is also facing the challenge of educating its students about the importance of environmental sustainability. It is essential that the next generation is equipped with the knowledge and skills needed to address the challenges of climate change.

Despite these challenges, the Benguet University remains committed to its mission of providing a high-quality education. It is working to implement various measures to reduce its carbon footprint and to promote sustainable practices across the campus.

Depositors plan rural bank revival

MANILA, Jan. 13 (AP) — Depositors of rural banks across the Philippines are planning to revive the rural bank system, a move that could significantly impact the country's financial landscape.

The plan, which is being coordinated by the National Rural Bankers' Association (NRBA), involves the consolidation of existing rural banks into a new, stronger entity. This move is seen as a response to the challenges faced by rural banks, including limited capital and operational inefficiencies.

Depositors are expected to play a crucial role in this revival, as they will likely be required to contribute funds to the new institution. The revival is seen as a way to ensure that rural areas continue to have access to financial services, which is essential for their economic development.

Hulacan gov assaults DENR on transport of marble ore

MANILA, Jan. 13 (AP) — The local government of Hulacan is taking legal action against the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) over the transport of marble ore.

The government claims that DENR's actions are in violation of local laws and regulations. It argues that the transport of marble ore is causing significant environmental damage and is interfering with local development.

The DENR, on the other hand, maintains that its actions are necessary to protect the environment and ensure sustainable resource management. It claims that the transport of marble ore is a legitimate economic activity and that it is taking steps to minimize any potential environmental impacts.

Negros rice production rising, hits 45 percent

MANILA, Jan. 13 (AP) — Rice production in Negros is showing a significant increase, reaching 45 percent of the target.

The increase is attributed to improved agricultural practices and favorable weather conditions. Local government officials are optimistic about the prospects for a successful harvest.

The rise in production is seen as a positive development for the region's economy and food security. It is expected that the increased output will help meet the demand for rice in the area and potentially for export.

Laag exec says school transfer is good move

MANILA, Jan. 13 (AP) — An executive from Laag has stated that a recent school transfer was a good move.

The executive, who is involved in the transfer process, expressed confidence that the move would benefit the students and the community. He noted that the new school location was more suitable for the area's needs.

The transfer was part of a larger initiative to improve the quality of education in the region. The executive believes that the move will lead to better learning outcomes and a more vibrant school community.

Tourism chief says Boracay airport is safe

MANILA, Jan. 13 (AP) — The Tourism Secretary has declared the Boracay airport safe for travel.

Following a thorough inspection, the secretary found no significant issues that would prevent flights from operating normally. He assured the public that the airport meets all necessary safety standards.

The declaration is a relief for tourists and airlines alike, as it ensures that travel to and from Boracay can continue without interruption. The secretary also mentioned that ongoing safety measures will be maintained to ensure a secure travel experience.

Benguet Corp. suspends Kingking mining project

By Ben J. Edwards

Move prompted by dispute with partner

Benguet Corp. has suspended its Kingking mining project in Benguet province, Philippines, after a dispute with its partner, the Philippine Mining Corporation (PMC), over the project's future. The suspension comes after a series of disagreements between the two companies regarding the project's development and financing. Benguet Corp. has since announced that it will be taking over the project, but the suspension remains in effect until the dispute is resolved.

$1.5-B global bond sale to boost peso

By Ben J. Edwards

The Philippine government is planning to raise $1.5 billion through a global bond sale to help stabilize the peso and boost the economy. The sale is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The government has been struggling with the peso's value, which has fallen significantly since the start of the year. The bond sale is seen as a key move to address the issue and provide the government with the funds it needs to support its economic policies.

Hand market promising, economists say

By Ben J. Edwards

Economists are optimistic about the hand market, which is expected to show strong growth in the coming months. The market is seen as a key indicator of the economy's health, and its performance is closely watched by investors and policymakers. The growth in the hand market is attributed to a combination of factors, including increased consumer spending and a rise in new product launches.

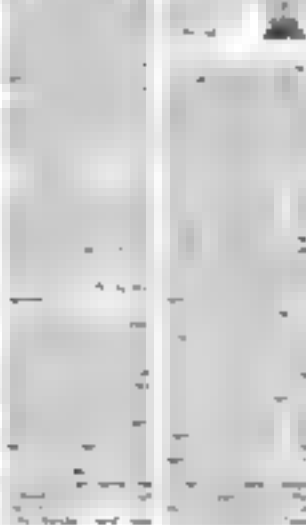

The hand market is expected to continue its upward trend, with analysts predicting a steady increase in sales over the next year. This optimism is based on several factors, including the strong performance of the market in previous quarters and the positive outlook for the overall economy.

The hand market's growth is also seen as a positive sign for the broader economy, as it indicates that consumers are confident and willing to spend. This, in turn, is expected to lead to further economic growth and job creation.

Overall, the hand market is seen as a promising area for investment and growth. As the economy continues to recover, the hand market is expected to play a key role in driving the country's economic progress.

Exports fell for 2nd

Exports fell for the second consecutive month, according to the latest data from the Bureau of Economic Analysis. The decline was attributed to a combination of factors, including a weak global economy and a loss of demand from key export markets. The government is working to address the issue and stimulate export growth.

Finally, the authors conclude that, according to the findings of this review, providing information to the public is important.

For example, being the youngest brother was a huge push in some simple, modern tests to deal up stress in the lab. In the past, the smallest subjects were excluded from the study, which is not always the case.

It would seem as though employers would not want to spend time and money on training if they could avoid it. But, as we have seen, the benefits of training are not always realized. Most workers have not had the chance to use the skills acquired while working for one employer. Thus, the one solution to the problem of training is to give the worker freedom to
